"South of the Border" Series: No. 4

Why the names of Jackie Robinson and Joe Louis and other U. S. sports idols are well-known in South America is revealed in the following article — 4th of a series — by James L. Kilgallen, INS staff writer.

By James L. Kilgallen
INS Staff Correspondent
(Written after an 18,000-mile air tour of Latin American countries with Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker.)

South America and North America are miles apart in one thing: Sports.

That's all right, too, because we all know customs and tastes differ. This difference in sports is one factor which makes Latin countries alluring places for tourists from the U.S. to visit.

Soccer is the chief sport in South America. They call it "Futbol."

Horse racing is tremendously popular, too.

Boxing and wrestling have a strong following.

Baseball is catching on in Venezuela and Peru — notably in Venezuela where it's "the rage."

Other sports such as golf, swimming and tennis have a certain vogue.

Crowds of 120,000 persons watch the soccer games every Sunday afternoon at the big stadium in Buenos Aires.

Horse racing is popular in most South American countries but it thrives in the Argentine. Crowds of from 75,000 to 150,000 surge to the two big tracks in Buenos Aires on Sunday.

I don't believe the United States has as fancy a track as the San Isidro racing course in Buenos Aires. It's bigger and classier than our Belmont, Hialeah, Santa Anita

Raymond H. Acuff, a stenotypist living at Langhorne, has been appointed by President Judge Ethan A. Gearhart to serve as stenographer in the Lehigh County Orphans' Court. He has been named to the $4,000 a year post to succeed Harold Arndt, who resigned in February, 1948, to take a similar position at a higher salary in Northampton county.

Mr. Acuff began his duties in Lehigh county last week, and as soon as possible he and his wife and two children will take up residence in Allentown.

A native of Phila., Mr. Acuff resided here since childhood. He is a graduate of George School, Phila. College of Pharmacy and Science, Rider College, Trenton, and a stenotype school in Phila.

Mr. Acuff was formerly secretary to the plant manager of Rohm and Haas, Co., Bristol. He was also secretary to the president of the E. G. Budd Company, Phila.

About 200 patrons of the Moonlite Gardens Skating Rink, at Jamison, saved approximately $65,000 worth of property Sunday evening when fire ignited a shed on the rear of a house adjoining the rink.

Thought to have started from a possible explosion of an oil burner, the fire was discovered at 9:30, licking wildly at the sides of a shed in the rear of the home of Walter

Croydon Firm to Change From Retail to Wholesale

A Croydon firm, Arnold Electric Supply, announced this morning that after September 20th it will change from a retail electrical supply business to a wholesale electrical supply establishment, catering to contractors and builders.

After that date owners of the firm state that all their contracting and electrical wiring business will be discontinued. The business was established in 1932.

The new wholesale business was made necessary to meet the demands of contractors and builders in the lower Bucks County area, the announcement states. It will be the only wholesale electrical supply establishment between Trenton and Philadelphia, according to the announcement.

Andalusia Residence Damaged by Fire

ANDALUSIA, Sept. 15 — A large dwelling here was damaged by fire last evening when flames were discovered in the kitchen. It is believed that the blaze was due to an overheated flue. The alarm was sounded at 9:10.

The property, owned by Mr. Adams and occupied by John Irving, Bristol Pike, near Walnut avenue, was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars. Several months ago a stove exploded at the same residence.

A wood fire was burning in a stove in a rear kitchen and this, it is believed, overheated the flue.

The ceiling of the kitchen and the second floor were damaged.

Three fire companies, Eddington, Cornwells Fire Co. No. 1, and Union Fire Co., responded.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

The United States Steel Corporation, followed by several other large companies, yesterday rejected industry-financed pensions for their workers. Unless President Truman intervenes a strike Sept. 25th was considered inevitable. The union, holding the pension plan the heart of the recommendations made by the Presidential fact-finding board, pointed out that several companies now financed pensions for their own employees.

Southern soft-coal operators interpreted the demand of John L. Lewis that two companies immediately resume payments into the Miners' Welfare Fund as the prelude to a strike. The union had carried its appeal to the Cleveland Trust Company as trustee for the two companies, but the bank said it lacked jurisdiction.

President Truman nominated Major General Anthony C. McAuliffe, hero of the Bastogne defense, head of the Army's Chemical Corps to replace Major General Waite, who retired as a result of the Senate "five percenter" inquiry. He also nominated Major General Gruenthal to be Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Combat Operations and former Republican Senator Cooper of Kentucky to succeed John Foster Dulles on the United States delegation to the United Nations General Assembly.

Agreement on two points was reported to have been reached by Secretary of State Acheson and British Foreign Secretary Bevin at a "mutually satisfactory exchange of views" on the Balkan situation. Yugoslavia is to be encouraged by all means short of overt action in her dispute with the Moscow-controlled Cominform. "Steps" will be taken to prevent Greece from any aggressive move toward Albania, the trouble there being a matter for the United Nations to settle. Britain has already declared war against invading Albania.

The United States has placed on the Assembly's calendar its dispute with Bulgaria, Hungary and Romania over alleged violation of the human rights clauses in their peace treaties. Foreign Minister Vishinsky, who will head the Soviet delegation, had lunch in Moscow with United States Ambassador Kirk; it was his first visit to foreign embassy since taking office.

The Union of South Africa withdrew a motion that the World Bank permit the repricing of gold.

French Roman Catholics were warned by their four Cardinals to obey the Vatican's anti-Communist

SOAP (SOFT)

What manner of women are these who listen to soap operas five days a week? Mona Kent, who has been getting $1,000 a week for cooking up the soft soap and spreading it on thick has come to the conclusion that they are a pitiful lot. And so, perhaps as an act of contrition, she has written a book about her art.

What women want in soap operas, she is convinced, is drugs, not nourishment. They don't feel self-confident and admired. Instead of trying to do something about it, they demand a radio protagonist they can identify themselves with.

So a soap opera heroine can never be wrong. She must always win easy triumphs over her husband. (Miss Kent tried letting the husband win a round once, and still remembers the furious letters she got.)

Little Mrs. Softsoap has a succession of passionately devoted male admirers toward whom she feels only virtuous emotions because she puts her love for husband and kiddies above all else. She has her troubles, of course, but they're never in the least her fault. They're caused by evil people.

In public she may cock a sophisticated snoot at the maudlin extravagance of nineteenth-century melodrama. At home she is avid for the stuff, and weeps into the dishwasher as she listens to it.

All this bothers Miss Kent. (So much, in fact, that she is taking chances with $1,000 a week.) She has even tried to inject "a little truth, a little realism" into her soap operas. But no soap. The audience fell off fast. "Women listeners," she is convinced, "don't want their soap operas ever to challenge them to use their minds or to look at themselves honestly."

The evidence certainly supports this conclusion. But the thought intrudes that women, despite all indications to the contrary, are people; that their backbones are not 99 and 44-100ths per cent soft soap—that most of them will respond to nobler challenges if they get the chance.

Too often they don't, though. What is life doing to them, what are they doing to themselves, to make them soft-soap addicts?

American English is to replace the King's English, according to reports, and this seems logical. If they are to use American money they might as well learn to speak its language.

In Boston an escaped crazy man avoided capture for days by racing a motorcar through the streets and appearing to the authorities as a perfectly normal person.

Motorists complain that a highly-touted automatic transmission wastes gas. If true, such technological advancement should obviously be accompanied by a deep well fuel tank.

A Difficult Family Situation

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, PH.D.

THERE are some wonderful step-mothers and step-fathers and their achievement is one of distinction. As a rule, hard problems are involved both for the child and the step-parent and these problems may be much harder when the other parent is still alive, as in divorce, than when this parent is dead.

Case of Divorce
If the real mother is still alive, as in case of divorce, you certainly will not allow yourself to drop a single derogatory remark about her and you will hope that none of your relatives do so.

If you have children of your own and your new husband has none, he may have a hard time winning your children's affection and cooperation. You, of course, can help in this. So can your own relatives. Be alert to their temptation to do the opposite and become meddling. Don't be critical of your husband, managing the household for him, particularly if she and the father have been companionable, it is awfully hard for this daughter, apparently, for the teen-age daughter than the teen-age son. If, for instance, the daughter had been left for many months with the father, managing the household for him, particularly if she and the father have been companionable, it is awfully hard for this daughter to see some other woman coming into the home to manage it, and to capture most of the father's attention and affection.

If both you and this second husband have growing children in your home the problems, as you can see, will be increased. Not only may your children find it hard to adapt themselves to the step-father but his children also may not find it easy to adjust themselves to you the step-mother.

Then imagine the problems the two sets of children may have getting along together. No matter how hard both you step-parents try, each of you will at times betray a preference in your hearts for your very own children. Then there are in-laws and relatives on both sides who may not always mind their own business. The "plot thickens" with "your children my children and our children" (My bulletins, "Jealousy," and "Suggestions to Grandparents" may be had in a stamped envelope.)

Win Child's Acceptance

To the woman marrying a man who has one or more children: Aim to win the child's acceptance before the marriage. In this the father can be very helpful. If the child is quite young you may be able to proceed about as if you were the real mother. But the older the child the less able you may be to do this well. In any event you will be wise to know what the father expects of you in relation to his child and to what degree he will cooperate. If he has a son or daughter over ten or twelve you will be wise to avoid expressing much authority over the child but to work on the principle of winning his or her cooperation.

Wisely you will restrain yourself in venturing rebukes and punishment.

decree. The prelates emphasized they were not taking the side of capitalism and assailed those who opposed social reform.

A "complete, unlimited and exhaustive" grand jury inquiry into the violence attending Paul Robeson's Peekskill appearances was ordered by Governor Dewey. He called the outbreaks "a shame and a disgrace" and said protesting groups had fallen into a Communist "bear trap." The inquiry will seek to learn if the Communists planned the meetings "deliberately" to incite disorder.

Churchill Downs, San Isidro, can easily handle 100,000 spectators.

The other track in Buenos Aires is called Palermo. It, too, is spacious and eye-filling. It features gardens and lagoons within its oval racing enclosure.

At the Argentine tracks they pay off on win and place. There are no "show" windows. You can bet as low as 2 pesos which is about the equivalent of 20 cents in U. S. currency.

Argentine tracks are longer than ours. Their horses seem geared for distance.

Pugilistic fighting is popular. South America has produced some pretty good pugilists.

Luis Angel Firpo, "The wild bull of the Pampas" who was knocked out by Jack Dempsey years ago, is an Argentinian. Arturo Godoy, who was K.O.'d in the states by Joe Louis not long ago, hails from Chile.

Joe Louis, retired world's heavyweight champion, has legions of admirers "south of the border." In 1947 Louis toured South America and packed the parks.

Daniel Carpio, a Peruvian now living in Buenos Aires, swam the English channel last year and aroused tremendous interest in distance swimming.

The fact that many of our boys were in South America during the war explains the growing interest in baseball down there.

Right now Venezuela is wild about our coming world's series. The natives in that country are rooting for the Brooklyn Dodgers to win the National League pennant and get into the series.

Jackie Robinson, Don Newcombe, Roy Campanella and Louis Olmo—

all of the Dodgers — formerly played with the Caracas Club and did their bit in putting baseball on the map in Venezuela.

Venezuela has a baseball league with 60 teams in it. The fans recently picked the two most popular players in the league and financed them on a trip to the states so they could see how the Yankees, Dodgers and other big leaguers play the game.

The two selected were Padron, a catcher on the Port City Club at La Guira and Montes, a center fielder with the University of Caracas.

A prime mover in the sport of baseball in Venezuela is U. S. Ambassador Walter J. Donnelly who used to play sand lot baseball around New Haven, Conn.

In Peru, on the west coast, baseball is taking hold. The best players there are said to be Japs. Lima, the capital, has a league made up of Panagra pilots, U. S. army and navy personnel, and the Japs.

You can't overlook bull fighting when you discuss Latin American sports. Those on the Rickenbacker good will tour saw a real bull fight on a Sunday afternoon in Mexico City.

It was quite a spectacle. We saw an infuriated bull gore a matador named Fernando De Los Reyes. Earlier, he had "dedicated" one of the bulls he was about to kill to Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker. They carried the bleeding De Los Reyes out of the arena in bad shape.

Henry Sames, at one time a resident of Plumsteadville, his wife, the former Miss Pearl Wismer, who lived in Dublin, and their daughters, Beatrice, 21, and Dorothy, 14, were injured in a two-car crash in Berks county, early Sunday evening. The family now lives at East Greenville.

It required more than four hours of work in the dispensary of Allentown Hospital before the injured had their wounds treated to allow their transfer to hospital beds.

Physicians at the hospital worked from shortly after six o'clock until 10:25 o'clock in an effort to alleviate possible facial disfigurements of the three women.

"If it hadn't been for the skaters," Mr. Carter said, "the entire house and rink would have gone up in flames. There isn't more than two feet between the two places—and the thing started so spontaneously that it just seemed to explore—and that would have meant a loss of about $65,000!"

Activities for Year Get Underway for Junior Club

LAHASKA, Sept. 15—Girl Scouts was the topic of the meeting which on Monday started activities for the season for Buckingham Junior Women's Club, in Midway Fire Co. station.

Speaker of the evening was Mrs. Matthew Suydam, Doylestown, who commended the club for sponsoring two troops of Scouts, and pointed out that the club is performing a real service for the girls in the community. Troops, she said, are not organized without sponsors, some of the duties of which are to find leaders and meeting places and giving moral and financial backing to the troops. William S. Mason, Doylestown, showed a film on Girl Scout activities.

Mrs. Russell Walter, leader of Troop 37, gave a report of the activities of the troop. The 24 girls in this troop earned 66 badges the past year. This troop was also represented at Camp Kiwanis the past summer.

In the absence of Miss Elizabeth Berger, leader of Troop 38, Miss Hannah McCaughey gave a report of the work of that troop, which was represented during the summer at Camp Archbald.

During the business session in charge of the vice-president, Mrs. Henry D. Wendt, announcement was made that Mrs. John G. Fetterolf will be the senior advisor this year.

Today's Quiet Moment
—o—
By the Rev. Charles H. Weller
Pastor
Bristol Methodist Church

As we seek to walk in the Christian way of unselfish service and sacrifice, our Father, we ask thee to make us sensitive to the needs of our fellow men. Help us to minister to the hungry, the hurt and the lonely . . . so we may find happy fellowship with Him who came to minister. Guide us in our personal conquest of selfishness—the selfishness that makes us bitter and leaves us lonely; the selfishness that is entrenched deep in the heart beyond the reach of medicine or surgery. By a divine surgery set us free from the disease of greed—free to love and labor for Thy Kingdom. In humble faith we pray. Amen.

Hold-Up Pair Given One Year Each for Twp. RobberyContinued from Page One

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 15 — A gift of new $60,000 dormitory for National Agricultural College is announced by the president, James Work. The new dormitory is to be erected by April 1st.

The benefactor is Edwin B. Elson, prominent retired New York manufacturer, who has been a trustee of the college for some years.

An additional $10,000 has been provided to furnish the new dormitory which will be known as "Edwin B. Elson Hall" and erected on the South side of Memorial Lane which runs between the center of the campus in the direction of Alumni House and Route 202. The dormitory will provide rooms for 48 additional students.

It was stated that one place had a poolroom-store "front." The officers confiscated a large box of racing forms, adding machines, and other gambling equipment, it was stated. Judge Keller warned that both places will be padlocked if there is one further bit of evidence that gambling continues.

John L. Seneca was sentenced to pay costs, fine of $250, and sentenced to serve from four months to one year in the county prison. It was brought out that in 1946 he had been fined $50 on a similar charge, with prison sentence suspended. The Court said to him: "You had your chance, and it didn't seem to do any good."

John J. Brescia, a victim of infantile paralysis, was sentenced to pay costs, $50 fine, and prison sentence was suspended. Frank Brescia was fined $400, sentenced to pay costs, and prison sentence of a year suspended.

Salvatore Seneca was fined $200 and costs, and his prison sentence, six months to one year, suspended.

Said President Judge Hiram H. Keller, before the four were tried: "Gambling is always manipulated in favor of the operators and never for the suckers; the sad part is that the innocent ones, the wives and children, suffer."

The Court continued: "The Court realizes this matter of gambling is a two-handed proposition. If the public wasn't gambling-minded you gamblers would have no players. The public must accept part of the blame, but you have done an illegal act and must be punished."

been completed, the state plans to "black-top" the entire street from Pennsylvania avenue to Delmore avenue.

The street committee was authorized to look into the feasibility of continuing Washington street through to Union street. Washington street now ends at East Bridge street. Cost of property which will be taken will be investigated by the committee, should the two block extension be made. It was reported by Harry M. Laff that the Free Bridge Commission expects to build a watchman's house on the Morrisville side of the Calhoun street bridge, similar to the one at Yardley. The building will be on bridge property. It was decided to meet with the commission for a study inasmuch as the fill will extend on borough property just south of the bridge.

SOFTBALL PLAYERS TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the Second Ward softball team this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the clubhouse on Washington street. All players are requested to be present.

The flesh of the kangaroo is much prized by natives of Queensland, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Ground-breaking exercises for the new dormitory will be held Sept. 20, at 1:15.

Local labor will be employed.

Curtin Resigns As The Morrisville Solicitor

MORRISVILLE, Sept. 15 — Resignation has been tendered by William S. Curtin as solicitor for the borough of Morrisville.

Curtin, who has held the borough post since 1932, told council that he had to resign because of his recent appointment as district attorney of Bucks County. Council approved the resignation "with regret." It will not appoint a successor until early next year.

Representatives of the Union Fire Co. Rescue Squad, William Waplesley and William Hutchinson, were present at Monday's session and voiced their objections to certain members of the unit being subpoenaed for court in connection with a recent auto accident in Morrisville in which the squad officiated.

Solicitor Curtin explained that the subpoenas were issued by the county and not the local police who are required to furnish the names of all accident witnesses.

CONSIDER RESISTANCE TO SOIL IN CHOOSING
HOME FURNISHINGSBy Frances Vannoy
(Home Economics Extension Representative)

Strength and resistance to soil and weathering are the main points to consider when buying fabrics for home furnishings.

Although linen heads the list for having these qualities, cotton, which rates second, is purchased more often because it is less expensive. Wool is used less widely than linen and cotton and is seldom used in draperies.

Rayon is a popular fabric for household furnishings, since it has excellent resistance to soil. However, rayon weakens when wet. Nylon is the strongest fabric and most easy to care for. It requires no ironing if properly hung or stretched for drying.

The development of nylon and other fabrics and fabric finishes mean new knowledge and responsibilities for today's homemaker in selecting fabrics to meet her family's needs. The type of material she will buy will depend on how it is to be used.

Some fabrics may be used for draperies and slip covers, while others may be used for draperies, but would not qualify for slip covers. The kind of fabric used for draperies, slip covers, and curtains should suit the type of home where they will be used. Materials suitable for a city or town house might be out of place in the farm home. Rural homes usually require firm, easily laundered materials for slip covers.

Homemakers are urged to find out what curtain, drapery and slip cover materials are made of before they buy, to determine how the fabrics should be cared for and how long they will wear under normal conditions.

Calling attention to plastic fabrics, plastic sheeting is usually translucent and waterproof, making it especially good for bathroom and kitchen use. Some plastic coated fabrics may be used for curtains and draperies and are good for slip covers. Homemakers are urged to use plastics only where there is no danger of fire, as some of them are highly inflammable.

Some plastic sheetings dry out and crack with age. Others may melt when coming in contact with heat. Look for labels and information about the trade name before buying. Manufacturers are improving the qualities of plastics so that more labels and information for consumers are available.

And Pontiac's performance is equally unmistakable—thanks to Pontiac's great power plants, the straight eight or the six, and to the amazing driving convenience of GM Hydra-Matic Drive.*

NAMES OF SPORTS IDOLS WELL KNOWN "SOUTH OF BORDER"

Prizefighting Popular; South America Has Produced Good Pugilists

TASTES DIFFERENT

Horse Racing Popular; U.S. Tracks Are Not Half As Fancy

"South of the Border" Series: No. 4

Why the names of Jackie Robinson and Joe Louis and other U. S. sports idols are well-known in South America is revealed in the following article — 4th of a series — by James L. Kilgallen, INS staff writer.

By James L. Kilgallen

INS Staff Correspondent

(Written after an 18,000-mile air tour of Latin American countries with Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker.)

South America and North America are miles apart in one thing: Sports.

That's all right, too, because we all know customs and tastes differ. This difference in sports is one factor which makes Latin countries alluring places for tourists from the U.S.A. to visit.

Soccer is the chief sport in South America. They call it "Futbol."

Horse racing is tremendously popular, too.

Boxing and wrestling have a strong following.

Baseball is catching on in Venezuela and Peru — notably in Venezuela where it's the "rage."

Other sports such as golf, swimming and tennis have a certain vogue.

Crowds of 120,000 persons watch the soccer games every Sunday afternoon at the big stadium in Buenos Aires.

Horse racing is popular in most South American countries but it thrives in the Argentine. Crowds of from 75,000 to 150,000 surge to the two big tracks in Buenos Aires on Sunday.

I don't believe the United States has as fancy a track as the San Isidro racing course in Buenos Aires. It's bigger and classier than our Belmont, Hialeah, Santa Anita

Raymond H. Acuff, a stenotypist living at Langhorne, has been appointed by President Judge Ethan A. Gearhart to serve as stenographer in the Lehigh County Orphans' Court. He has been named to the $4,000 a year post to succeed Harold Arndt, who resigned in February, 1948, to take a similar position at a higher salary in Northampton county.

Mr. Acuff began his duties in Lehigh county last week, and as soon as possible he and his wife and two children will take up residence in Allentown.

A native of Phila., Mr. Acuff resided here since childhood. He is a graduate of George School, Phila. College of Pharmacy and Science, Rider College, Trenton, and a stenotype school in Phila.

Croydon Firm to Change From Retail to Wholesale

A Croydon firm, Arnold Electric Supply, announced this morning that after September 29th it will change from a retail electrical supply business to a wholesale electrical supply establishment, catering to contractors and builders.

After that date owners of the firm state that all their contracting and electrical wiring business will be discontinued. The business was established in 1932.

The new wholesale business was made necessary to meet the demands of contractors and builders in the lower Bucks County area, the announcement states. It will be the only wholesale electrical supply establishment between Trenton and Philadelphia, according to the announcement.

Three fire companies, Eddington, Cornwells Fire Co. No. 1, and Union Fire Co., responded.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

The United States Steel Corporation, followed by several other large companies, yesterday rejected industry-financed pensions for their workers. Unless President Truman intervenes a strike Sept. 25th was considered inevitable. The union, holding the pension plan the heart of the recommendations made by the Presidential fact-finding board, pointed out that several companies now financed pensions for their own employees.

Southern soft-coal operators interpreted the demand of John L. Lewis that two companies immediately resume payments into the Miners' Welfare Fund as the prelude to a strike. The union head carried his appeal to the Cleveland Trust Company as trustee for the two companies, but the bank said it lacked jurisdiction.

President Truman nominated Major General Anthony C. McAuliffe, hero of the Bastogne defense, head of the Army's Chemical Corps to replace Major General White, who retired as a result of the Senate "five percenter" inquiry. He also nominated Major General Gruenthal to be Deputy Chief of Staff for Plans and Combat Operations and former Republican Senator Cooper of Kentucky to succeed John Foster Dulles on the United

What manner of women are these who listen to soap operas five days a week? Mona Kent, who has been getting $1,000 a week for cooking up the soft soap and spreading it on thick has come to the conclusion that they are a pitiful lot. And so, perhaps as an act of contrition, she has written a book about her art.

What women want in soap operas, she is convinced, is drugs, not nourishment. They don't feel self-confident and admired. Instead of trying to do something about it, they demand a radio protagonist they can identify themselves with.

So a soap opera heroine can never be wrong. She must always win easy triumphs over her husband. (Miss Kent tried letting the husband win a round once, and still remembers the furious letters she got.)

Little Mrs. Softsoap has a succession of passionately devoted male admirers toward whom she feels only virtuous emotions because she puts her love for husband and kiddies above all else. She has her troubles, of course, but they're never in the least her fault. They're caused by evil people.

In public she may cock a sophisticated snoot at the mauldin extravagance of nineteenth-century melodrama. At home she is avid for the stuff, and weeps into the dishwasher as she listens to it.

All this bothers Miss Kent. (So much, in fact, that she is taking chances with $1,000 a week.) She has even tried to inject "a little truth, a little realism" into her soap operas. But no soap. The audience fell off fast. "Women listeners," she is convinced, "don't want their soap operas ever to challenge them to use their minds or to look at themselves honestly."

The evidence certainly supports this conclusion. But the thought intrudes that women, despite all indications to the contrary, are people; that their backbones are not 99 and 44-100ths per cent soft soap—that most of them will respond to nobler challenges if they get the chance.

Too often they don't, though. What is life doing to them, what are they doing to themselves, to make them soft-soap addicts?

American English is to replace the King's English, according to reports, and this seems logical. If they are to use American money they might as well learn to speak its language.

In Boston an escaped crazy man avoided capture for days by racing a motorcar through the streets and appearing to the authorities as a perfectly normal person.

Motorists complain that a highly-touted automatic transmission wastes gas. If true, such technological advancement should obviously be accompanied by a deep well fuel tank.

A Difficult Family Situation

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

There are some wonderful step-mothers and step-fathers and their achievement is one of distinction. As a rule, hard problems are involved both for the child and the step-parent and these problems may be much harder when the other parent is still alive, as in divorce, than when this parent is dead.

If either spouse already has a child under five or six, the way may be much easier than if this child were older but not fully grown. From scattered observations and the many letters I receive, the adolescent son or daughter whose father or mother remarries may have an especially hard time adapting to the foster parent; often harder, apparently, for the teen-age daughter than the teen-age son. If, for instance, the daughter had been left, for many months with the father, managing the household for him, particularly if she and the father have been companionable, it is awfully hard for this daughter to see some other woman coming into the home to manage it, and to capture most of the father's attention and affection.

Win Child's Acceptance

To the woman marrying a man who has one or more children: Aim to win the child's acceptance before the marriage. If this the father can be very helpful. If the child is quite young, you may be able to proceed about as if you were the real mother. But the older the child the less you may be able to do this well. In any event you will be wise to know what the father expects of you in relation to his child and to what degree he will cooperate. If he has a son or daughter over ten or twelve you will be wise to avoid expressing much authority over the child but to work on the principle of winning him and his cooperation.

Wisely you will restrain yourself in venturing rebukes and punishment.

decree. The prelates emphasized they were not taking the side of capitalism and assailed those who opposed social reform.

A "complete, unlimited and exhaustive" grand jury inquiry into the violence attending Paul Robeson's Peekskill appearance was ordered by Governor Dewey. He called the outbreaks "a shame and a disgrace" and said protesting groups had fallen into a Communist "bear trap." The inquiry will seek to find if the Communists planned the meetings "deliberately" to incite disorder.

Federal Judge Medina adjudged men, and the older the child the greater should be these self-restraints. If the real mother is dead your ace card usually will be in very respectful reference to the deceased mother when a situation arises to occasion any reference to the real mother.

If the real mother is still alive, as in case of divorce, you certainly will not allow yourself to drop a single derogatory remark about her and you will hope that none of your relatives do so.

If you have children of your own and your new husband has none, he may have a hard time winning your children's affection and cooperation. You, of course, can help in this. So can your own relatives. Be alert to their temptation to do the opposite and become meddlesome. Don't be critical of your husband if he does not assume authority over your children. Indeed, he will be wise to restrain himself in this direction, except in ways on which he and you may wholeheartedly agree.

If both you and this second husband have growing children in your home the problems, as you can see, will be increased. Not only may your children find it hard to adapt themselves to the step-father but his children also may not find it easy to adjust themselves to the step-mother.

Then imagine the problems the two sets of children may have getting on together. No matter how hard both you step-parents try, each of you will at times betray a preference in your hearts for your very own children. Then there are in-laws and relatives on both sides who may not always mind their own business. The "plot thickeners" with "your children" and "our children" (My buffete, "Jealousy," and "Suggestions to Grandparents" may be had in a stamped envelope.)

It was learned that Earl Browder, former head of the American Communist party, had been quietly removed by Russia as publishing representative here of the All-Union Council of Ministers.

The other track in Buenos Aires is called Palermo. It, too, is spacious and eye-filling. It features gardens and lagoons within its oval racing enclosure.

At the Argentine tracks they pay off on win and place. There are no "show" windows. You can bet as low as 2 pesos which is about the equivalent of 20 cents in U. S. currency.

Argentine tracks are longer than ours. Their horses seem geared for distance.

Prize fighting is popular. South America has produced some pretty good pugilists.

Luis Angel Firpo, "The wild bull of the Pampas" who was knocked out by Jack Dempsey years ago, is an Argentinian. Arturo Godoy, who was K.D.'d in the states by Joe Louis not long ago, hails from Chile.

Joe Louis, retired world's heavyweight champion, has legions of admirers "south of the border." In 1947 Louis toured South America and packed the parks.

Daniel Carpio, a Peruvian now living in Buenos Aires, swam the English channel last year and aroused tremendous interest in distance swimming.

The fact that many of our boys were in South America during the war explains the growing interest in baseball down there.

Right now Venezuela is wild about our coming world's series. The natives in that country are rooting for the Brooklyn Dodgers to win the National League pennant and get into the series.

Jackie Robinson, Don Newcombe, Roy Campanella and Louis Olmo

all of the Dodgers — formerly played with the Caracas Club and did their bit in putting baseball on the map in Venezuela.

Venezuela has a baseball league with 60 teams in it. The fans recently picked the two most popular players in the league and financed them on a trip to the states so they could see how the Yankees, Dodgers and other big leaguers play the game.

The two selected were Padrón, a catcher on the Port City Club at La Guira and Montes, a center fielder with the University of Caracas.

A prime mover in the sport of baseball in Venezuela is U. S. Ambassador Walter J. Donnelly who used to play sand lot baseball around New Haven, Conn.

In Peru, on the west coast, baseball is taking hold. The best players there are said to be Japs. Lima, the capital, has a league made up of Panagra pilots, U. S. army and navy personnel, and the Japs.

You can't overlook bull fighting when you discuss Latin American sports. Those on the Rickenbacker good will tour saw a real bull fight on a Sunday afternoon in Mexico City.

It was quite a spectacle. We saw an infuriated bull gore a matador named Fernando De Los Reyes. Earlier, he had "dedicated" one of the bulls he was about to kill to Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker. They carried the bleeding De Los Reyes out of the arena in bad shape.

P. Carter, manager of the Moonlite Gardens, Skaters made the discovery and, while the fire company was being summoned, rapidly formed a bucket brigade from spigots in the house. The blaze was gotten under control by the time the engines arrived.

"If it hadn't been for the skaters," Mr. Carter said, "the entire house and rink would have gone up in flames. There isn't more than two feet between the two places—and the thing started so spontaneously that it just seemed to explore—and that would have meant a loss of about $65,000!"

7th Anniversary is the Occasion for Jolly Time

Henry Sames, at one time a resident of Plumsteadville, his wife, the former Miss Pearl Wismer, who died in Dublin, and their daughters, Beatrice, 21, and Dorothy, 14, were injured in a two-car crash in Berks county, early Sunday evening. The family now lives at East Greenville.

It required more than four hours of work in the dispensary of Allentown Hospital before the injured had their wounds treated to allow their transfer to hospital beds.

Physicians at the hospital worked shortly after six o'clock until 10:25 o'clock in an effort to alleviate possible facial disfigurements of the three women.

Others present: Elaine Moyer, Sandra Gibson, Linda Moore, Carol Ann Morgan, Barbara Dorusak, Rebecca Chyla, Patricia Denight, "Edie" Waters, "Doug" Gibson and Elaine Hibbs. Refreshments were served.

Activities for Year Get Underway for Junior Club

LAHASKA, Sept. 15—Girl Scouts was the topic of the meeting which on Monday started activities for the season for Buckingham Junior Women's Club, in Midway Fire Co. station.

Speaker of the evening was Mrs. Matthew Suydam, Doylestown, who commended the club for sponsoring two troops of Scouts, and pointed out that the club is performing a real service for the girls in the community. Troops, she said, are not organized without sponsors, some of the duties of which are to find leaders and meeting places and giving moral and financial backing to the troops. William S. Mason, Doylestown, showed a film on Girl Scout activities.

Mrs. Russell Walter, leader of Troop 37, gave a report of the activities of the troop. The 24 girls in this troop earned 66 badges the past year. This troop was also represented at Camp Kiwanis the past summer.

In the absence of Miss Elizabeth Berger, leader of Troop 38, Miss Hannah McCaughey gave a report of the work of that troop, which was represented during the summer at Camp Archibald.

During the business session in charge of the vice-president, Mrs. Henry D. Wendte, announcement was made that Mrs. John G. Fetterhoff will be the senior advisor this year.

town. There were eight troopers in two details, one from Doylestown barracks and one from Philadelphia barracks. The places raided were the store of John and Frank Brescia, Otter street, and the place of John and Salvatore Seneca, Pond street, near Washington. Officers found John and Frank Brescia in the Brescia place, as well as five or six other men. No patrons were found at the Seneca place.

It was stated that one place had a poolroom-store "front." The officers confiscated a large box of racing forms, adding machines, and other gambling equipment. It was stated, Judge Keller warned that both places will be padlocked if there is one further bit of evidence that gambling continues.

John L. Seneca was sentenced to pay costs, fine of $250, and sentenced to serve from four months to one year in the county prison. It was brought out that in 1946 he had been fined $50 on a similar charge, with prison sentence suspended. The Court said to him: "You had your chance, and it didn't seem to do any good."

John J. Brescia, a victim of infantile paralysis, was sentenced to pay costs, $50 fine, and a prison sentence was suspended. Frank Brescia was fined $400, sentenced to pay costs, and prison sentence of a year suspended.

Salvatore Seneca was fined $200 and costs, and his prison sentence, six months to one year, suspended.

Said President Judge Hiram H. Keller, before the four were tried: "Gambling is always manipulated in favor of the operators and never for the suckers; the sad part is that the innocent ones, the wives and children, suffer."

The Court continued: "The Court realizes this matter of gambling is a two-handed proposition. If the public wasn't gambling-minded you gamblers would have no players. The public must accept part of the blame, but you have done an illegal act and must be punished."

Character witnesses included Deputy Clerk of Orphans Court Joseph B. Keating; and the Rev. Peter A. Pinci, of St. Ann's R. C. Church, Bristol.

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 15 — A gift of a new $60,000 dormitory for National Agricultural College is announced by the president, James Work. The new dormitory is to be erected by April 1st.

The benefactor is Edwin B. Elson, prominent retired New York manufacturer, who has been a trustee of the college for some years.

An additional $10,000 has been provided to furnish the new dormitory which will be known as "Edwin B. Elson Hall," and erected on the South side of Memorial Lane which runs between the center of the campus in the direction of Alumni House and Route 202. The dormitory will provide rooms for 48 additional students.

The new building will be in keeping with the attractive architecture of other buildings on the campus and will include a frontage of some 56 feet, with the dormitory section to be located in a wing in the rear of the left section of the building.

Final plans call for the erection of another wing and other features which will bring the final over-all cost to $200,000, that it is hoped can be completed within the next several years.

The dormitory will be of fire-proof construction, one story high, and will be erected under the general supervision of Heister Reinhardt, building superintendent of the college.

Ground-breaking exercises for the new dormitory will be held Sept. 20, at 11:55.

Local labor will be employed.

Curtin Resigns As The Morrisville Solicitor

MORRISVILLE, Sept. 15 — Resignation has been tendered by Willard S. Curtin as solicitor for the borough of Morrisville.

Curtin, who has held the borough post since 1932, told council that he had to resign because of his recent appointment as district attorney of Bucks County. Council approved the resignation "with regret." It will not appoint a successor until early next year.

Representatives of the Union Fire Co. Rescue Squad, William Wagnleitner and William Hutchinson, were present at Monday's session and voiced their objections to certain members of the unit being subpoenaed for court in connection with a recent auto accident in Morrisville at which the squad officiated.

Solicitor Curtin explained that the subpoenas were issued by the county and not the local police who are required to furnish the names of all accident witnesses.

Plato held that an animal that killed a man should be prosecuted for murder.

CONSIDER RESISTANCE TO SOIL IN CHOOSING HOME FURNISHINGS

By Frances Vanney
(Home Economics Extension Representative)

Strength and resistance to soil and weathering are the main points to consider when buying fabrics for home furnishings.

Although linen heads the list for having these qualities, cotton, which rates second, is purchased more often because it is less expensive. Wool is used less widely than linen and cotton and is seldom used in draperies.

Rayon is a popular fabric for household furnishings, since it has excellent resistance to soil. However, rayon weakens when wet. Nylon is the strongest fabric and most easy to care for. It requires no ironing if properly hung or stretched for drying.

The development of nylon and other fabrics and fabric finishes mean new knowledge and responsibilities for today's homemaker in selecting fabrics to meet her family's needs. The type of material she will buy will depend on how it is to be used.

Some fabrics may be used for draperies and slip covers, while others may be used for draperies, but would not qualify for slip covers. The kind of fabric used for draperies, slip covers, and curtains should suit the type of home where they will be used. Materials suitable for a city or town house might be out of place in the farm home. Rural homes usually require firm, easily laundered materials for slip covers.

Homemakers are urged to find out what curtain, drapery and slip cover materials are made of before they buy, to determine how the fabrics should be cared for and how long they will wear under normal conditions.

Calling attention to plastic fabrics, plastic sheeting is usually translucent and waterproof, making it especially good for bathtub and kitchen use. Some plastic coated fabrics may be used for curtains and draperies and are good for slip covers. Homemakers are urged to use plastics only where there is no danger of fire, as some of them are highly inflammable.

Some plastic sheetings dry out and crack with age. Others melt when coming in contact with heat. Look for labels and information about the trade name before buying. Manufacturers are improving the qualities of plastics so that more labels and information for consumers are available.

Some fabrics may be used for draperies and slip covers, while others may be used for draperies, but would not qualify for slip covers. The kind of fabric used for draperies, slip covers, and curtains should suit the type of home where

The doctor who wrote Daddy's cough medicine prescription specified exactly the medicine Dad required for his physical condition. But when Junior gets sick—is Daddy's medicine all right for him? Definitely not. Junior is much younger, and it's likely that Dad's medicine would be too strong—would have injurious effects, possibly, upon Junior's health. Why take this chance? When Junior is ill, consult your doctor. Then bring his prescription to us for the painstaking, accurate compounding that makes Junior's medicine exactly right for him.

There's an unmistakable stamp of distinction about the new Pontiac. It's a beauty from the front and it's a beauty from the rear!

BENSALEM HIGH TO PLAY DOYLESTOWN AT COUNTY SEAT IN OPENER TOMORROW NIGHT

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 15—Everything that was humanly possible for the Doylestown Boosters Club to do within reason, has been done in the way of preparations for tomorrow's night football opener on War Memorial Field, against Bensalem Township High, co-champs of the Lower Bucks County League with Bristol last season.

A crowd of 3,000 fans are expected to witness the first night football game in the history of Doylestown sports, and it will be the first time the Doylestown Hornets of the Bux-Mont Conference have ever faced Bensalem Township High, an opponent that was selected for the opening "Booster Game" because of its past record. This is definitely not a practice game. It will be a first-class, tough assignment for the protégés of Coaches Ray Woodcock and Bill Lowther.

Announcement has been made that the Boosters Committee headed by Frank X. Shelley, Jr., as general chairman, has made an outstanding success by disposing of over 400 booster tickets alone, up until the present time.

The evening's kickoff is scheduled for 8:30 promptly, but the colorful preliminaries will start at 8:10 p.m. The extras will include an exhibition drill by the junior drum and bugle corps of the Jesse Soby Post of the Langhorne American Legion, State champions on numerous occasions.

Marion Wolfgang, of Chalfont, will lead in the opening "Star Spangled Banner." Joseph R. (Joe) Kenny, Doylestown emcee, will officiate during the festivities, and there will be a play-by-play de-

Bensalem is coached by Marlon J. VanHorn and Johnny Messinger. Neither the Doylestown or Bensalem coaching staffs are making any predictions. One thing is certain: fans, whether they are football fans or just plain fun-lovers, are going to see one of the most colorful sports spectacles in the history of Doylestown.
